ON OBTAINING TRANSLATION OF DALAIL-UL-KHAIRAT

Some days and events live a lifetime in memory. Here is such an event of my life. A few years ago I had been to the United States of America to stay with my sons. During my stay at Kansas City I had the good fortune to attend weekly "Halqa" of Naqshbandi order at the residence of Mr. Ahsan Iqbal, who belonged to Renala Khurd District Sahiwal, Pakistan. He did graduation in Civil Engineering from Berkley University Sans Francisco and was employed in a reputed concern at Kansas City in those days.

Hazrat Nazim Haqqani, a great saint and a profound scholar of Naqshbandi order, is permanently residing in Turkish Cyprus. He has spread the splendid light of Islam with enormous speed in the United Kingdom and the United States of America. The weekly "Halqas" under his benign guidance take place regularly in almost all the big cities of America. The popularity of these charismatic Halqas can be gauged by the fact that social and political circles are well aware of their influence and effectiveness. Mr. Ahsan Iqbal, one of his ardent disciples, was doing the good service of conducting the weekly "Halqa" at Kansas City with missionary spirit.

I told him that I intended to translate Dalail-ul-Khairat in English. He was extremely happy to know of it. He pulled out a book from his bookshelf. I opened the book and to my amazement it was a photostat of Dalail-ul-Khairat translated by John. B. Pearson and printed at Oxford, England in 1907. There were remarks on its very title that it was for private circulation only. Since it was meant for private circulation only, it has remained beyond the reach of a common man throughout the world for the last over one hundred years.

It can very safely be affirmed that it is the ever first translation of Dalail-ul-Khairat in the English language.

Luck has rallied to my side. I am grateful to Allah Almighty whose Greatness is Supreme, to favour me for getting it printed for the use and recitation by Muslims the world over; particularly those living in the West who were keen to recite and understand the message and meanings of its text and also for close access to Allah and His beloved Prophet, blessings and peace be upon him.

I might have made some unintentional mistakes during the process of editing for which, in all humility, I seek for pardon and forgiveness. I entreat the worthy readers to remember me in their prayers for my improvement in religious disciplines and for the redemption of my soul.

And lastly a significant hint regarding Dalail-ul-Khairat. Its recitation on daily basis is certain to open before you new vistas of the seen and the unseen. Believe me that it is a wonderful world of wonders and in the words of the Prince of Denmark;

“There are more things in heaven and earth, Horatio,
Than are dreamt of in your philosophy.”

Further suggestions including the mistakes pointed out, likely to increase the utility of the book from readers and authorities on the subject, will be greatly appreciated.

INTRODUCTION

By The Translator

A few years ago a friend in the army accepted an appointment in West Africa, on the Gold Coast; and knowing the activity with which the Muhammadan religion is promoted in those parts, I requested him to obtain for me, if possible, a copy of the Zur'an as sold in the bazaars. The volume he sent me is the manual of prayer of which I have made a translation: whether the Zur'an itself is sold publicly, I cannot say. At Cuiro or Constantinople it is well known that it cannot now be procured in manuscript: though it is used by European officials in Africa for swearing Muhammadan witnesses in courts of justice, and is known as 'the big book'. From what I hear, however, this work of Al-Jazuli is practically the favourite prayer-book of Muhammadans in Africa and Egypt, as is natural, from the author having been a native of Morocco; and very possibly also in Persia and Turkey: the best evidence of what I am saying being the number of copies to be found in libraries at home. There are four or more at Cambridge, quite as many at Oxford; and at the British Museum they are so often offered by travellers returning from the East that they invariably decline them.

When I received the book sent me by my friend, I saw at once that it was not the Zur'an proper, or even a collection of extracts; so I sent it on to a friend at Cambridge well versed in Oriental studies, who returned it to me with the reply that it had at once been identified as a popular manual, known by the name of Al-Jazuli; and that there were copies of it in the University Library. With some hesitation, and not discouraged by my own imperfect eyesight, or by my very imperfect knowledge of the Arabic language, I resolved to translate and print it; partly for the benefit of missionaries employed in work in Muhammadan countries, and also in the general interest of literature.

The title of the book is 'Dalail-ul-Khairat' or 'Guide to Happiness'.

By the kindness of the authorities at the Bodleian Library, Oxford, I have prefixed as frontispiece a representation (A) of the tomb at Medina, formerly the home of Ayesha, Muhammad's youngest wife, where the remains of the Prophet and his Comrades are said to rest; and (B) of the Kaaba, or Holy House, at Mecca. It is taken from one of the Oriental manuscripts brought to England by the well-known traveller, E.D. Clarke, afterwards Professor of Geology at Cambridge, and purchased after his death by the University of Oxford.

The volume itself is not so very old, dating from the middle of the fifteenth century of our era, so that it is long subsequent to the best times of Arabic literature; and indeed, so far as I can see, it has no connection with it. An authentic life of the writer will be found in an appendix. My translation commences with a sort of preface which is not identical in two MSS. which I had from the library at Cambridge, and which also is wanting in my own manuscript, as well as in another copy lent me by a friend from West Africa. Very possibly it is not Al-Jazuli's own work, and was prefixed at an early date by some editor or chief scribe. Anyhow it is interesting as exhibiting the ideas of a Musleman mind. As the Life of Al-Jazuli seems to imply that he was never able himself to perform the pilgrimage to Mecca and Medina, the rude representation of the former place which seems to be found, in different forms, in every copy of the book, may be merely his own conception of what it would be like. The rest of the translation will speak for itself; the two hundred names of Muhammad are a curious replica, if I may call it so, of the Almighty, said to be cited by Maracci, the Italian editor of the Quran; further details as to Al-Jazuli's life, and the book itself, will be found in the Appendix.

With these prefatory remarks, I leave the work to speak for itself, only adding, by way of colophon, an adaptation of a well-known epitaph:

Qui que tu sois, ami ou ennemi,
De ce vieux auteur respect les cendres.*

The two MSS. used in the translation are in the University Library at Cambridge (Browne's catalogue).

EDITOR'S CRITICAL APPRAISAL OF THE TRANSLATION

It is a superb work of translation done by J.B. Pearson published by Oxford and printed for private circulation in 1907. It is perhaps the ever first translation of Dalail-ul-Khairat in English. The translation has been done with precision and care and according to traditional scholarly methods. In the first place the translation is very good. The language employed is idiomatic, flows freely, and is easy to read. It retains the flavour of the original Arabic text without, however, reflecting any of its Arabic syntax and word order. It is a sound translation of this daily manual of prayer of the well – known fifteenth century Sufi Master Al – Jazuli. Given Al – Jazuli's fame and in the context of the popularity of the book the world over, the translation was long over – due and would certainly be welcomed in the West.

It is interesting to note that J. B. Pearson did not translate it out of sheer love for Islam. To borrow his own language,

“I resolved to translate and print it; partly for the benefit of missionaries employed in work in Mohammedan countries, and also in the general interest of literature.”

While re-editing it I have ventured to change translation at some places. There is a long list of such changes and it is not possible to give its details. Difficulties have been experienced as translated book contains the English text only; it is without the Arabic text. Again great difficulty has been faced in making the comparison and finding out the meanings of words.

J. B. Pearson stumbled while translating a passage pertaining to the grave of JESUS. In description of the blessed precincts in which the Prophet of Allah is interred, he has translated it as under:-

“And the remaining part of the sepulcher towards the east is empty; in it is the place of a tomb and God knows best, that JESUS the son of Mary is buried there.”

We as Muslims believe that JESUS on re-arrival in the world will rule over the world before the Day of Resurrection and then would be buried in the empty space within the blessed precinct. The word is has, therefore, been replaced by will be to straighten the factual position based upon our faith and firm conviction.

J. B. Pearson while commenting upon the frontispiece of Holy House at Macca and the holy Prophet's tomb at Medina has observed as under:-

“As the life of Al-Jazuli seems to imply that he was never able himself to perform the pilgrimage to Macca and Medina, and the rude presentation of the former place which seems to be found, in different forms, in every copy of the book, may be merely his own conception of what it would be like”.

Perusal of Al-Jazuli's life as given in different books shows that he had the honour to visit the two Holy Places during his life time. J. B. Pearson has, therefore, remarked incorrectly that the author of the book had merely given his own conception of these two places of what it would be like. The factual position is that propose of giving the pictures of these two places in 'Dalail-ul-Khairat' even today is not without meaning and primarily the purpose is two fold.

- i. The reader of 'Dalail-ul-Khairat' who daily recites this manual of prayer and is far from these two Holy Places and is unable to visit them on account of financial difficulties, serious illness, physical incapacity or any other circumstances beyond his control, may vicariously imagine their existence and develop love as a true Muslim for these sacred places.
- ii. That while reciting 'Dalail-ul-Khairat' daily the reader should kiss the picture / photograph of the Holy House and imagine that he has placed his lips upon the sacred stone (Hajer-e-Aswad) and thereafter should pronounce O Allah, I am here before Thee (Laybbaik, Allahumma-Laybbaik).
- iii. Similarly the reader should kiss it and place his eyes upon the picture of the tomb of the holy Prophet imagining that he stands migrated spiritually and vicariously in the court of the holy Prophet and then should send blessings upon the holy Prophet such as Ussalatu-wassak-mu-alaika-ya-rasool-ullah.

Similarly through-out the Text J. B. Pearson has translated the word Sayyedna as "Our Prince." It stands replaced by "our Master" for the reason that "our Master" is more appropriate translation of the word Sayyedna than that of "Our Prince." Again the word God has been replaced by the word Allah throughout the text. The name of the holy Prophet in the original text has been translated as Mohemat which now stands replaced by Muhammad (blessings and peace be upon him). Similarly the spellings of Koran have been changed to its spellings as Zur'an.

Since J. B. Pearson did not have any appreciable background of learning in Islam, he showed his curiosity on the two hundred names of the holy Prophet as against the ninety nine names of Allah, the Almighty. Perhaps he did not know that the beautiful names of Allah and the noble names of the holy Prophet are countless in number and beyond the ken of human imagination. Mr. J.B. Pearson was not a profound scholar and as such he was puzzled to arrive at the conclusion that the names of the holy Prophet are a curious replica of the names of Allah, the Almighty. He could not therefore, appreciate that the names of Allah and the holy Prophet are sometimes common, but their meanings are not exactly the same / identical when applied at any place. These names carry different shades of meaning and characteristics as per Muslims belief, conviction and scholarly research by profound authorities on Islam. The research is purely based upon the text of the holy Zur'an and the sayings (Ahadis) of the holy Prophet. Had he been aware of this background he would not have remarked us under:

“the two hundred names of Muhammad (blessings of Allah and peace be upon him) are a curious replica, if I may call it so of the ninety nine name of the Almighty, said to be cited by Marraci the Italian editor of the Zur'an.”

I have divided the whole book in three sections;

Section A recounts the editor's narration on obtaining translation of Dalail-ul-Khairat and its critical appraisal. It, at the same time, contains Introduction by the translator which is very useful and interesting;

Section B the longest one, contains the entire devotional recitation of Dalail-ul-Khairat which have been named by me as the Union Bridge for close access to Allah and His beloved prophet.

Al-Jazuli's life history has been well written by Mr. A.G. Ellis. I, however, thought it proper to add some additional notes pertaining to his native country, the city where he lived, the medersa where he obtained education, the place where he compiled Dalail-ul-Khairat and the city where he was buried. These additional notes would certainly add to the knowledge of the reader and would certainly make his reading more profiting.

Section C therefore, from appendix I to appendix XI deals with different aspects of Dalail-ul-Khairat and its author. Appendix II is particularly noteworthy for remarkable translation by Mr. A.G. Ellis which gives extremely valuable and detailed directions for using the book and simultaneously throwing light on the philosophy of dividing the book in different chapters and divisions. It enables the readers to recite the book according to his will, capacity and grade.

I have also incorporated a few couplets of Zasidah Burdah at the end and beginning of some chapters and sections to make the reading more interesting and enjoyable. These couplets have been chosen from Poem of the Mantle translated by the late professor Dr. A.R. Anjum formerly Head of the English Department, Government College, Lahore.

AN ADVICE

And if you see the ego controlling you

And it comes to lead you into the Fire of debased Desires,

Banish its desires by perpetual blessings,

There is nothing to compare with Dalail-ul-Khairat

With Dalail-ul-Khairat you must be firm,

Make its reading compulsive

In achieving your desired goals,

Read it to obtain your wishes,

Divine lights sparkle and blaze thereby,

O my brethren, it is never to be abandoned.

- Say: I seek refuge in the Lord of Daybreak
  - From the evil of that which He created;
  - From the evil of the darkness when it is intense,
  - And from the evil of malignant witchcraft,
  - And from the evil of the envier when he envieth.

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful

- Say: I seek refuge in the Lord of mankind,
  - The King of mankind,
  - Allah of mankind,
  - From the evil of the sneaking whisperer,
  - Who whispereth in the hearts of mankind.
  - Of the Jinn and of mankind,

In the name of Allah, the Beneficent, the Merciful

- Praise be to Allah, Lord of the Worlds,

  - Owner of the Day of Judgment,
  - Thee (alone) we worship; Thee (alone) we ask for help.
  - Show us the straight path,
  - The path of those whom Thou hast favoured;
  - Not (the path) of those who earn Thine anger nor of those who go astray.

PREFACE

IN THE NAME OF ALLAH, THE MERCIFUL, THE COMPASSIONATE

Allah bless our master and patron Muhammad Abu Abdullah

Muhammad bin Salaiman Al-Jazuli, the Imam, the jurisprudent, the learned, the righteous, who said;

Praise be to Allah, who has guided us to the faith, and the religion of Islam and prayer to our master

Muhammad, his Prophet, who has delivered us from the service of idols of wood or metal; and to his Family, those innocent and honourable stars of heaven.

And next to this, in the design of this book, there is an account of prayer to the Prophet, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, and the graces it brings, which I will record, with the citations deleted so that the remembrance of it may be easy to the reader, and this is one of the anxieties which disturb any one who desires access to the Lord of Lords;

And I have entitled the book the 'Guide to Comforts' and 'Rising beams of brightness', in record of prayer to the Chosen Prophet; in full desire for the approval of the Most High Allah, and love for His Noble Envoy our master Muhammad, the blessing and perfect peace of Allah be on him: and to Allah, who is entreated that He will suffer us, for his law, to be among those who follow it, and for the efforts for perfection to be among those who love him; though in this withal He is all Powerful; there is no Allah besides Him; none good as He is Good:

الْمَوْلَى وَنَعَمَ النَّصِيرُ وَالْأَحْوَلُ وَالْأَقْوَةُ إِلَّا بِاللَّهِ الْعَلِيِّ الْعَظِيمِ
 فَصَلِّ فِي فَضْلِ الصَّلَاةِ عَلَى النَّبِيِّ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ
 قَالَ اللَّهُ عَزَّ وَجَلَّ إِنَّ اللَّهَ وَمَلَائِكَتَهُ يُصَلُّونَ عَلَى النَّبِيِّ يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا صَلُّوا عَلَيْهِ وَسَلِّمُوا تَسْلِيمًا
 وَيُرْوَى أَنَّ رَسُولَ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ جَاءَ ذَاتَ يَوْمٍ
 وَالْبُشَيْرِيُّ تَرَى فِي وَجْهِهِ فَقَالَ إِنَّهُ جَاءَنِي جِبْرِيلُ عَلَيْهِ السَّلَامُ
 فَقَالَ لِي أَمَا تَرْضَى يَا مُحَمَّدُ أَنْ لَا يُصَلِّيَ عَلَيْكَ أَحَدٌ مِّنْ أُمَّتِكَ إِلَّا صَلَّيْتُ
 عَلَيْهِ عَشْرًا وَلَا يُسَلِّمُ عَلَيْكَ أَحَدٌ مِّنْ أُمَّتِكَ إِلَّا سَلَّمْتُ عَلَيْهِ عَشْرًا
 وَقَالَ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ إِنَّ أَوْلَى النَّاسِ بِي الْكَثْرَةُ عَلَى صَلَاةٍ
 وَقَالَ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَنْ صَلَّى عَلَيَّ صَلَاتٌ عَلَيْهِ الْمَلَائِكَةُ
 مَا دَامَ يُصَلِّيَ عَلَيَّ فَلْيُقِلِّ عِنْدَ ذَلِكَ أَوْلِيكَ تَرَى وَقَالَ صَلَّى اللَّهُ
 عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ بِحَسْبِ الْمُرءِ مِنَ الْبُخْلِ أَنْ أَذْكَرَ عِنْدَهُ وَلَا يُصَلِّيَ عَلَيَّ
 وَقَالَ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ أَكْثَرُوا الصَّلَاةَ عَلَيَّ يَوْمَ الْجُمُعَةِ
 وَقَالَ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَنْ صَلَّى عَلَيَّ مِنْ أُمَّتِي مَرَّةً وَاحِدَةً
 كُتِبَتْ لَهُ عَشْرُ حَسَنَاتٍ وَمُحِيتُ عَنْهُ عَشْرُ سَيِّئَاتٍ
 وَقَالَ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ مَنْ قَالَ حِينَ يَسْمَعُ الْإِذَانَ وَالْإِقَامَةَ

He verily is the Patron, He truly is the Defender, and there is no force or power saving in Allah, Exalted and Powerful.

A SECTION ON THE GRACES OF PRAYER TO THE PROPHET, THE BLESSINGS AND PEACE OF ALLAH BE ON HIM

Allah, Powerful and Exalted, said; “Verily Allah and His angels bless the Prophet, Aye Ye who believe, bless him and wish him abundant peace”.

And there is a story current: The Prophet of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, came one day, and the good news was seen in his countenance, and he said: “Truly Gabriel came to me, peace be on him and said, “Are you not pleased, O Muhammad, that whenever one of thy Community asks Allah to bless you, Allah will bless him ten times and whenever one of thy community asks Allah to grant you peace, Allah will grant him peace ten times”.

And he said, Allah bless him and give him peace, “The nearest to me is the one who offers prayers to me most”.

And he Said, the blessings and peace of Allah be on him; “who asks for blessing upon me, angels bless him as long as he continues to bless me, whether he does this less or more.”

And he said: Allah bless him and give him peace: “A person is miser if, when I am mentioned in his presence, he fails to ask for blessings upon me.”

He said: the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, “Ask for more blessings upon me on Friday.”

And he said, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him; whoever of my religion blesses me once, there are written down for him ten virtues, and ten offences effaced for him.”

And he said, the blessings and peace of Allah be on him; “whoever says, when he hears the muezzin's first and second call to prayer:

And he said, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: “Whoever blesses me in the book, the angels will not cease to bless him as long as my name continues in this book.”

And Abu Suleiman al-Darani said: Whoever desires to ask of Allah whatever he requires, and persists in his prayer to the Prophet, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him; and then asks his petition of Allah and seals with prayer to the Prophet, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him; and when Allah Most High receives both the prayers, and certainly Allah will accept both the requests for blessings upon the Prophet and it is not possible that Allah will not accept his petition which is in between the two prayers.

There is tradition of the Prophet, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, “whoever blesses me on the Day of Assembly (Friday) a hundred times will be forgiven by Allah for his sins of eighty years”.

Abou Huraira, the favour of Allah be on him remarked: The Apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, said; “For any one who speaks a blessing on me, there is light on the Bridge on the Day of Resurrection and whoever is on the Bridge from the People of Light, he will not be one of the People of Fire.”

Another tradition: Abdul Rahman-Ibn-Aouf, may Allah Most High favour him, said this: The Apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, said to him: “The angel Gabriel, peace be on him, came to me and said: Aye, Muhammad, not one of thy religion will speak a blessing on thee, except that seventy thousand angels do the same for him; and whomsoever the angels bless, verily he is a citizen of Paradise”.

The Apostle said, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: “The more your prayers to me, the more will your wives be in Paradise.”

Here is another tradition. He observed, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: “Any one who blesses me fervently in the truth of my faith: at that word the Powerful and Glorious Allah created an angel: one of his wings reached to the east, the other to the west; his two feet planted on the seventh and lowest surface of the earth, and his neck bending beneath the Throne. Said Allah, the Powerful and Glorious: “Bless my servant as he asks for blessings upon my Prophet and thereupon the angels will bless him till the Day of Resurrection.”

Yet another tradition of him, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him; and what he said was this: “Verily there will come down to me to the cistern on the Day of Resurrection nations that I know them not, saving only by the number of their prayers to me”.

Here is another tradition of him. He observed, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, and what he said was this:

Said the Prophet, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: “No servant, whoever he may be, speaks a blessing on me, but what a hasty prayer arises from his lips, and there does not exist a place either by land or sea, or in the east or the west, but what the prayer reaches it, and says: I am the prayer of this man, the son of that man: blessing on Muhammad the chosen, the best of the creation of Allah: there shall not remain anything but what it too blesses him.

At this prayer Allah created a bird with seventy thousand wings, every wing with seventy thousand feathers: on every feather seventy thousand faces; on every face, seventy thousand mouths; in every mouth seventy thousand tongues: every tongue will praise Allah in seventy thousand words, and Allah will write down recompense for all this.”

There is a tradition of Ali, son of Abou Talib, the favour of Allah be on him, that he observed as follows: It was said by the Apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: "Whoever blesses me on the day of assembly (Friday) a hundred times, when the Day of Resurrection comes and with it light, if so it is destined, the light would be enough for the whole of creation."

There is a legend in some of the histories, that on the pedestal of the Throne is written: "Whoever earnestly desires of Me My Mercy, on him I have mercy; and whoever entreats me, to him, I give; and whoever approaches Me in prayer to my Beloved Muhammad, on him be blessing and peace; that man I forgive his offences, even though his offences be like the foam of the sea."

Here is another anecdote of some one of the Companions of the Prophet, the favour of Allah be on them once and all: that he observed, "whoever in an assembly blesses Muhammad there, Allah also gives him blessing and peace: what a pleasant perfume arises from the meeting till it mounts from among them to Heaven, and the angels say: This is the perfume of an assembly where they have spoken a blessing on Muhammad: the blessing and peace of Allah be on him".

Another story is found in some of the legends: a believing slave, a man, or it may be a woman, as he persists in prayer to Muhammad, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him; "the doors and curtains of Heaven are opened even as far as the Throne of Allah, and there remains not one angel in all the heavens, who does not speak blessing and peace on Muhammad, and entreats mercy withal for the slave, whether man or woman, as far as Allah Most High might please."

There a tradition of one of the more upright men that he observed: "I had with me a neighbour who is now no more, who died, and I saw him in a dream, and said to him: How has Allah dealt with you? He has pardoned me and had mercy on me. I said to him: For whom were you given this? And he said: "As soon as ever I wrote the name of Muhammad, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, in a book, I spoke a blessing on him, and my Lord granted me what eye has not seen nor ear heard, nor has occurred to the heart of mortal man."

And it is related from Anas, the favour of Allah be on him; it was said by the Apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: "not one single one of you will be a believer, until I am more dear to him than his life and his substance and his children and his parents and his men, one and all of them."

And we find in the Tradition of Umer, the favour of Allah be on him: "Thou art dearest to me, thou Apostle of Allah, above everything except my soul that is within my mortal frame". The Apostle of Allah, Allah's blessings and peace be on him, said to him: "Thou wilt not be a believer until I am verily beloved by thee more than thy own soul"

Umer said, the favour of Allah be on him. "By Him who has sent thee the Book, verily thou art dearer to me than my soul that is within my mortal frame". Said the Apostle of Allah, blessings of Allah and peace be on him: "Aye Umer, now thy faith is perfect."

and using another word, a genuine believer?”. He said: “when you love Allah”

The reply was: “When shall I love Allah?” The Prophet said: “when you love his Apostle”. The reply again: “when shall I love the Apostle of Allah?”. The Prophet said: “when you follow his path, and employ yourself in his law, and become a partner of his affections, and share his dislikes, and are friendly with his friends, and act as an enemy towards his enemies, and when men distinguish themselves in the faith to the utmost of their power of doing so in his love, and when they distinguish themselves in the question of unbelief to the utmost of their doing so, in their dislike towards their enemies”.

There is no faith in any one who has no love for him.

There is no faith in any one who has no love for him”.

It was said to the Apostle of Allah. the blessings and peace of Allah be on him: “we see a believer who is submissive, and a believer who is not submissive: what is the reason for this?”

Said the Apostle of Allah. the blessings and peace of Allah be on him: “whoever finds satisfaction in his faith is submissive; and whoever does not find it is not submissive”.

On the reply, And in whom is it found or on whom is it bestowed, or acquired? The Apostle of Allah, the blessings and peace of Allah be on him, answered: “on sincerity in love to Allah”. And when enquired: In whom is love towards Allah to be found, and on whom is it bestowed or acquired by him? He said: “In the love of His Apostle, and in the earnest wish for the favour of Allah, and the favour of his Apostle, and in the love of both of them.”

It was said to the Apostle of Allah. the blessings and peace of Allah be on his. “what is family of Muhammad, who has enjoined on us to love them and to honour them, and show piety towards them? He said: “The chosen and faithful families of those who believe in me and sanctify me". On the remark, what are their signs? "he replied: My love will be manifest in every one who is beloved, and inward devotion to the remembrance of me, next to the remembrance of Allah Most High. And in another anecdote the words are: "Most lasting is my remembrance and the increase of prayer to me."

It was said to the Prophet of Allah, the blessings and peace of Allah be on him: "who is he that is strong in faith in thee?" "whoever believes in me and yet has not seen me, and for all that is a believer in me as far as he can desire, and is sincere in his love: and an evidence in him is this, that he desires a vision of me more than anything he owns (and in another anecdote the words are more than all the gold in the world). And in another anecdote that I have by me "The earth abounds in examples of believers of this class in very truth; but after all whoever is earnest and sincere in my love is upright".

It was said to the Apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: "Do you see the prayers of those who pray to you, coming from those who are unknown to you, and from those who will come after thee? what will be the situation of these two sorts of men with you?"

The reply of the Apostle of Allah was this: "I shall hear the prayer of those who love me, and I shall know them, and the prayer of others than those will be certainly presented to me."

THE SUPPLICATION TO BE RECITED AFTER THE NOBLE NAMES OF THE HOLY PROPHET

IN THE NAME OF ALLAH, THE MERCIFUL, THE COMPASSIONATE

Praise be Allah. Lord of the Worlds. Allah is my sufficiency and the best of Protectors, and there is no Strength and Power except in Allah, the Most High, the Almighty.

O Allah, verily I appeal from my strength and my power into Thy Strength and Thy Power.

O Allah, verily I draw near into Thee in prayer for our master Muhammad, Thy Servant, and Thy Prophet and Thine Apostle, the Lord of Envoys, in accordance with Thy Command, and in implicit belief in him, and for love of him, and for yearning towards him, and for veneration of his high station, and for that he is right worthy thereof. Therefore, receive this prayer for our Master Muhammad from me in Thy graciousness and make the veil of forgetfulness fall from my heart and make me of Thine upright servants.

O Allah, ever increase his honour and make him mightier than already he is and make his light greater than the light from which Thou hast created him. And make his station higher than the stations of all Thy other Messengers and his rank higher than the ranks of Thy other Prophets.

And O Allah I entreat for Thy pleasure and his pleasure, O Lord of the Worlds and beseech Thee for my eternal well-being and a death following the Book and the Sunnah, and that my witnessing of faith is truly without change or innovation.

Forgive me for what I have done, through Thy Grace,

 مِّنْ أَقْمَارِكَ وَهُوَ خَيْرُهُمْ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَعَلَى آلِهِ وَسَلَّمَ كَثِيرًا ۝

This is the description of the blessed precinct in which the Prophet of Allah is interred; the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, and his two comrades Abou Bakr and Umar, the favour of Allah be on them both;

This is the record about him of Orwah, the son of Zobeir, may Allah favour him. He said: The Prophet of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, was buried in the sepulcher: so was Abou Bakr buried there, may Allah favour him, the successor of the apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: and so was Umar buried there, the son of El Khattab the favour of Allah most High be with him, by the legs of Abou Bakr; and the remaining part of the sepulcher towards the east is empty; in it is the place of a tomb, it is said, and Allah knows best, that Jesus the Son of Mary will be buried in it.

And thus the tale came down to me from the Apostle of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him: said Ayesha, the favour of Allah most High be on her: "I saw three moons descend, in my chamber, and I described my vision to Abou Bakr, and he said: O Ayesha, surely there will be buried in thy house three that are the best of the people of the earth, every one of them: and when the Prophet of Allah, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him, was taken to his rest and was buried in my house, Abou Bakr said to me: This is one of thy moons, and he is the best of them: the blessing of Allah and abundant peace be on him and the people of his house.

Hence he is the One who has been gifted with intrinsic and extrinsic perfection
And the God of all created things then chose him for His own friendship.

O Allah, bless them in a continuous blessing that endures to eternity in the progress of nights and days, bringing a blessing through an eternity that never terminates and has no cessation, in the progress of nights and days, in all showers of rain, severe and soft.

O Allah, bless Muhammad Thy Prophet, and Abraham Thy friend, and all Thy Prophets and Thy elect, of the people of Thy earth, and Thy heavens throughout all Thy creation, and all that Thy soul favours and the embellishment of Thy Throne, and the form of Thy Words, and the utmost limits of Thy knowledge, and the beauty of all Thy created works;

a blessing that repeats itself evermore in everything of which Thy knowledge takes account.

Yes, give a blessing to all that Thy knowledge comprehends;

and the double that Thy knowledge comprehends;

a blessing that will increase and exceed and be full of grace;

the blessing of those in creation who bless them, one and all, even as Thy favour is upon all Thy creation.

Then you must offer this prayer, and an answer is expected, if Allah Most High be willing,

it will come after the blessing on the Prophet, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him.

THE SECOND PART TO BE READ ON TUESDAY

O Allah, I do entreat Thee for some of the good that Thou knowest, and I appeal to Thee against the evil that Thou knowest, and I entreat Thee for pardon for all that Thou knowest; for Thou knowest and we do not know, and Thou art above all Learned in Secrets.

O Allah, have mercy on me in times of my encirclement in discomforts and save me from the oppression of the tyrants so exceedingly cruel.

O Allah, place me for Thyself in secure protection and a strong refuge from all Thy creation, until Thou enablest me to reach the most transcendent eminence.

and bless our master Muhammad and the Family of our master Muhammad, in every one who does not bless him;

and bless our master Muhammad and the Family of our master Muhammad even as the blessing is suited to him;

For, O Allah, I take refuge with Thee for poverty's sake only to Thee,

O Allah, grant blessing and peace and favour to our master Muhammad and to the Family of our master Muhammad, yet the highest of those who are honoured among Thy Servants, and noblest of those who invite us to the practice of Thy Virtue, the Lamp of Thy Heavens and Thy Earth; a blessing that will not disappear, and will not pass away, wherewith Thou wilt extend to us an honour that is ever increasing.

O Allah, grant favour and peace and blessing to our master Muhammad and to the Family of our master Muhammad: so exalted in his place, object of respect and veneration; a blessing that will not terminate in all time, that will never, never disappear, and of which there never can be any reckoning.

O Allah, quicken us in following his law and make us associates of his religion, and let us be among the men who share his intercession, and invite us to join his company and conduct us to drink at his cistern, and suffer us to drink of his cup, without discredit, and without cause of regret, and without complaint, without change, without alternation, neither tempting nor tempted; so be it, Thou Lord of the Worlds.

O Allah, bless our master Muhammad and the Family of our master Muhammad and give him influence and favour and exalted rank; and raise him to life in the honourable place, which Thou hast promised him with his brothers the Prophets.

O Allah, bless Thy chosen Prophet, Thy favoured Apostle, Thy chosen Friend, whom Thou hast entrusted with the revelation of Heaven.

Said the Prophet of Allah: the blessing of Allah, and peace be upon him; “whoever recites this prayer once, Allah ordains for him the reward of an acceptable pilgrimage, and the reward of freeing a servant from the descendants of Ishmail; on him be blessing and peace. Said Allah: the Blessed and Exalted. “Yea, My angels, this is a servant of my servants; he has made many prayers to my Beloved Muhammad, blessing and peace be on him. Yes, by My Power and My Grandeur, and My Generosity, and My Glory, and My Exaltation; yes, certainly, WE have given him for every letter of the words asking for blessing; bless him for My Beloved Muhammad, in the castle of paradise, as comrade in the Day of Judgement, beneath the Standard of Praise. The light of his countenance is like the moon at night, the full moon, and his hand is in the hand of My Beloved Muhammad, the blessing and peace of Allah be on him.”

This is for any one who recites it every Friday the whole of it, his is this grace; by Allah, who is the source of Grace and all Powerful; and in another narrative.

For, O Allah, I beseech Thee by the truth that sustains Thy Throne, of Thy Power and Thy Glory and Thy Grandeur and Thy Splendor and by Thy Power, and by the Truth of Thy Name so treasured, so precious, by which Thou hast Named Thyself, and hast inserted it in Thy Book, and hast reserved it for Thyself in the Secret knowledge that is with Thyself; yes, that thou wilt bless Thy servant and Apostle Muhammad;

---

and I beseech Thee by Thy Name by which if invoked Thou answers, and by which if I entreat Thee by it, Thou grantest my request; and I beseech Thee by the Name which if Thou dost use it with the night, it becomes dark; and if with the daylight, it becomes bright;

And by the Names whereby our master Dhoulkephil invoked Thee, on him be peace.

And by the Names whereby
our master JESUS invoked Thee, on him be peace.

And by the Names whereby our master Muhammad invoked Thee, Allah bless him and give him peace; Thy prophet, Thy Envoy, Thy Beloved one, Thy Chosen; yea, he it was who said, and his word is truth: "Yea, Allah hath created you, and what ye do, surely there shall not issue from any of His Servants, either voice, or verb, or vowel, or stop, but that it most surely is already preordained in His knowledge, and His Judgement, and His Power."

How shall it be as Thou hast inspired me, and hast ordained for me to compile/edit / read this book;
and hast made the way and means therein easy for me;
and hast banished from my heart doubt or suspicion of this noble Prophet so that the love of him prevails in me above the love of all my relations and my friends.

I beseech Thee, O Allah. O Allah. O Allah.
that Thou wilt grant to me and to every one who loves him and follows him, his prayers and indulgencies in the Day of Reckoning, without strictness or penalty, reprimand or anger, and that Thou wilt forgive my sins, and hide my faults.

Yea, Thou Benevolent, yea Thou Merciful One;

Countenance, in the assembly of friends in the Day of Honour and Reward;

and wilt annul whatever Thy knowledge embraces of my errors and omissions and mistakes;
and that Thou wilt grant me visit to his Tomb;
and peace be upon him and his Companions;

Allah bless him and his Family in every assembly and place, with the highest blessing and peace.

Allah blessing him and his Family ever and anon with a blessing that will be a treasure and refreshment.

Allah bless him and his Family with a blessing perfect and pure.

Allah bless him and his Family with a blessing that will ever be followed by a breath and fragrant air, and attended by forgiveness and favour.

Allah bless most graciously the families who benefit by him, and the chiefs who take names from him, and the moons that take their light from the brightness of his forehead; truly the clouds and the rivers waste away at the generosity of his right hand: our master and Prophet and Patron Muhammad: at the splendour of his signs the hills and the valleys are bright, while at his wonders and at his signs, the Book speaks and the traditions verify themselves.

Allah bless him and his Family and his Companions who left their friends, to aid him, and who aided him in his emigration; yes, verily blessed be those who shared the emigration and who gave him help, a blessing ever increasing, everlasting, while the doves coo in their woods, and the set and steady rains pour down in torrents: may Allah for ever double His blessings upon him.

O Allah, bless our master Muhammad, and his Family, so good, so noble;

O Allah, bless our master Muhammad, the ascetic Prophet and Envoy of the Eternal King, the Only Lord. Allah bless him in perfect peace, a blessing that will continue unto the bounds of eternity, without interruption or exhaustion;

a blessing that will save us from the pains of Hell, and the misery of its Couch.

a blessing the amount of which cannot be computed, nor its extent reckoned.

O Allah, bless our master Muhammad with a blessing that will do honour to his home, and will reach of itself to the Day of Resurrection, for the entreaty That he hath pleased to approve.

O Allah, bless our master Muhammad, the unswerving Prophet, the capable master, who brought the revelation and the heaven sent gift, and explained the evidence of the vision, when the faithful Gabriel came to him, on whom be blessing and peace, with honour and favour:

when the steed took him on the journey to the Realm on High, in the long dark night, and revealed to him some of the Highest Spheres of the kingdom, and showed him the Majesty of the Almighty;

and he set eyes on His Power, so Living, so Eternal, so Enduring, Who never dies.

Allah give him blessing and peace, a blessing highly advanced in grace and excellence, in perfection, and goodness, and favour.

O Allah, bless our master Muhammad and the Family of our master Muhammad in all quarters of the earth,

And we entreat Thee, O Allah, for the knowledge of those who fear Thee, and the repentance of those who humble themselves, and the sincerity of disciples, and the recompense of the persevering, and the devotion of the upright.

And we entreat Thee. O Allah, by the Brightness of Thy Countenance, wherewith the pillars of Thy Throne are filled, that Thou wilt implant Thy knowledge in my heart, until I know Thee in the truth of Thy knowledge, so far as it is fitting that Thou shouldst be known by it.

Allah bless our master and patron Muhammad, Seal of the Prophets and Ensample of the Apostles, and his Family too, and his Comrades; and perfect peace. Praise be to Allah, Lord of the Worlds;

He is our merit; and indeed our Advocate: there is no power, and there is no strength, save in Allah, the Exalted, the Mighty.

O Allah, forgive the compiler / editor / reader of this book, have mercy on him and make him among those who gather together in the company of Thy Prophets, the truthful ones, those established in Testimony and the righteous ones on the Day of Resurrection by Thy Grace, O Allah, the Most Merciful.

Be my support, save me from looking towards others.

And thereby fulfill our hopes;

And accept our repentance;

And cleanse our misdeeds;

And make it a light in front of us and behind us, and to our left and right, and above us and beneath us, and in our lives, and at our deaths, and in our graves and on the Day of Gathering, and on the Day of Resurrection, and protect us with shade over our heads on the Day of Judgement,

And weigh down the scales in our favour with good deeds.

And perpetuate blessings on us until we meet our master Prophet and our Apostle Muhammad

Allah's blessing and perfect peace be upon him and his family and that we are well protected, fully satisfied and overjoyed,

APPENDIX-I

LIFE OF IMAM AL-JAZULI

Abu Abdullah Muhammad bin Sulaiman, al-Jazuli, the celebrated Muslim revivalist, was born a member of the Simlalah division of the Berber tribe of Gazulah (or Jazulah, as pronounced by Arabs), in the province of Sus al-Aksa. After completing his education in the city of Fez, driven apparently by the distracted state of his country, he formed the design of voyaging to the East, and had proceeded to Tanjah with a view to embarking, when he was persuaded to relinquish his purpose and returned to Fez. Here he set himself to compose his famous prayerbook, the Dalail-ul-Khairat, the materials for which he gathered in the library of the great mosque Jamia-al-Karwiyyin. In Fez also about this time he made the acquaintance of the well-known Moorish theologian and mystic, the Shaikh Zarruk'. (Ahmad Ibn Ahmad, al-Burnus, who was born in A.H.846 and died in A.H.899) Afterwards he left the city and betook himself to the Sahil, where, in the province of Dukkalah, he encountered the Shaikh Abu 'Abduallah Muhammad bin 'Abdullah, called Amghar the Less (a native of the village Rabat Tit, which is otherwise known as 'Ainal-Kasr, in the Sahil of Azamur) whose pupil he became, and it was this Shaikh, perhaps, who initiated al-Jazuli into the Shadili order of devotees. Later al-Jazuli retired into seclusion for the practice of asceticism, repeating every morning 14,000 'Bismi'llahs' and two litanies ('Silkah') of the Dalai-ul-Khairat, and every night one litany from the same as well as a fourth part of Quran. Finally, after a period of about fourteen years, he returned to the outside world, and established himself as a religious leader and revivalist in the city of Asafi. Preaching gained him numerous disciples, and his fame spread through the land. He occupied himself with meditation on the attributes of Allah and the practice of religious austerity, and he is even credited with the performance of miracles. Eventually he would seem to have become obnoxious to the government, and was expelled from Asafi by the governor of the city.

Hereupon he betook himself to a place called Afughal in the district of Matrazah (in his native province of Sus), where he continued his propaganda with still greater success and fame, gaining many adherents even among learned Shaikhs. He sent out missionaries into the country, amongst whom were the Shaikhs Abu 'Abd Allah Muhammad al-Saghir al-Sahli and Abu Muhammad 'Abd al-Karim al-Makrazi, 'to call the people to Allah, and to herd them like sheep into His path.' Crowds responded to the summons and flocked together to the teacher in such numbers, that it is recorded that the multitude of those, who were seeking to get near to Allah and were longing for His reward, great and small, who were gathered together to his presence, amounted to not less than 12,665. In the end, however, al-Jazuli appears to have fallen a victim to the malice of his enemies, and died of poison in Afughal on the 16th of the First Rabi, A.H. 870 (November 7, 1465 C.E), whilst engaged in the canonical morning prayer. The exact moment of his decease is disputed, whether it was during the second 'prostration' ('Sijdah') of the first 'inclination' (Rakuh), or during the first 'prostration' of the second 'inclination'. He was buried at midday prayer on the same day in the mosque which he had himself founded in afughal. He left no male issue.

Many of al-Jasuli's utterances are still current in the mouths of the people. He is the author of several treatises on mysticism, and also of the two devotional works, the 'Prayer of Success' and the 'Prayer of Praise of the Eternal that Ceaseth Not' (Hizb al-Falah 'and' Hizb Subhan ad-Da'im la yazal), and lastly of his famous prayer book, the Dalai-ul-Khairat.

Seventy-seven years after al-Jazuli's death his corpse was removed from Sus to Marakesh, and they reinterred him there in the 'Bride's Garden' (Riyad al-Arus) and built a chapel over him. When they took him out from his grave in Sus, they found his body exactly as on the day when it was buried. The earth had not affected it, nor had the length of time altered it in the least. The marks of the shaving of the hair of his head and of the clipping of his beard were as evident as on the day of his death, for at that time he had but recently had his hair trimmed. One of those who were present at the disinterment placed his finger upon the saint's face and pressed it, and the blood retreated from under the finger, and, when it was removed, returned just as if he had been alive. His tomb in Marakash is held in the utmost honour and veneration. The people repair to it in crowds, and many are they who read the Dalail-ul-Khairat beside it. It is averred that the scent of musk which proceeds from his grave is due to his constant assiduity in praying for the Prophet.

The foregoing biography of al-Jazuli is compiled from the life of the saint prefixed by Muhammad al-Mahdi al-Fasi al-Kasri to his commentary on the Dalail ul-Khairat, and from the notice included in the biographical dictionary of Ahmad Baba at-Tunbukti, entitled 'Takmilat ad-Dibaj'.

APPENDIX-II
TRANSLATION OF THE INTRODUCTION
PREFIXED TO THE DALA IL-UL-KHAIRAT
IN THE EDITION LITHOGRAPHED IN CAIRO IN A.H. 1281 (A.D. 1864)

How to start reciting the book -- directions regarding,
This is the prayer for beginning the Dalail-ul-Khairat:-
 In the name of Allah, the Merciful, the Compassionate.
 Praise be to Allah, Lord of the Worlds.

Allah is my sufficiency and the best of Protectors, and there is no strength and no power except in Allah,
 the Most High, the Almighty.

O Allah,

verily I appeal from my strength and my power unto Thy Strength and Thy Power.

O Allah,

verily I draw near unto Thee in prayer for our lord Muhammad, Thy servant, and Thy Prophet, and Thine Apostle, the lord of Envoys (Allah, be He extolled, bless him and save him and them, all of them), in accordance with Thy command, and in implicit belief in him, and for love of him, and for yearning towards him, and for veneration of his high station, and for that he is right worthy thereof (Allah, be He extolled, bless him and save him)

Therefore receive this prayer for our master Muhammad from me in Thy graciousness, and make me of Thine Upright Servants, and give me strength to recite it continuously, for the sake of his honour with Thee. Allah bless our lord Muhammad, and his Family, and his Companions, all of them.

[After this let the reciter repeat:

'I ask pardon of Allah, the Almighty,' (three times).

[Then:] Laud and praise to Allah, (three times)

[Then:] Allah is my sufficiency and the best of Protectors,

(three times).

Then let the reciter say:

'I take refuge with Allah from Satan the stoned.

In the name of Allah, the Merciful, the Compassionate. Say, He is Allah. One [i.e. Surah 112] to the end, (three times). Then the two Muivwidhaks [i.e. Surah 113 and 114] once each with the Bismillah ['In the name of Allah', &c.]

Then the Fatihah [Surah 1] and 'A.L.M. (Alif Lam Meem) This is the book [Surah 2] as far as 'shall prosper' [verse 4 of the same].

Then let him say:

'And Allah hath the most Beautiful Names. Therefore invoke Him thereby' [Surah 7, verse 179.]

After this let him recite the 100 Names of Allah, preceded by the Bismillah, and with the words 'whose Greatness is Supreme' repeated after each Name:-]

'In the Name of Allah, the Merciful, the Compassionate.

- 1- Allah, whose Greatness is Supreme.
- 2- The Merciful, whose Greatness is Supreme.
3. The Compassionate, whose Greatness is Supreme.
- 4- The King, whose Greatness is Supreme
- 5- The Holy, whose Greatness is Supreme.

&c &c &c

100- The Longsuffering, whose Greatness is Supreme.

Purpose of division and three grades Know, that the author [Allah, be He extolled, have mercy upon him] has arranged his book, this Dalail-ul-Khairat, in divisions, for the purpose of admonition and guidance.

For 'they that practise' are of three grades.

- To the first belong "those that fall short;
- To the second belong "the perfect"
- And to the third belong 'the most perfect';
- And it is not possible to attain to any one grade without passing through that which precedes it. To do so can only be accomplished by 'practice', and the highest kind of practice after that with Allah's book (be He extolled), is with prayer for the Prophet (Allah bless him and save him), and of prayer for the Prophet, one of the greatest books is the Dalail-ul-Khairat.

Division of book to attain the degrees The author then has divided his book into eighths, fourths, thirds, and halves, in order to facilitate the attaining to the aforesaid degrees.

He has assigned for the first degree the eighth.

When the soul has become habituated thereto, and continuous recitation thereof is easy to it, it advances to the fourth, and similarly from the fourth to the third, and thus attains to the second grade.

When the soul again has become habituated to the third and is filled with a yearning for something higher, it advances to the half and from that to the whole, and thus attains to the third grade, and thus obtains its desire of the Lord of creatures.

Another thought underlying the degrees Perchance also the thought underlying this division is that prayer for the Prophet (Allah bless and save him) enables to dispense with a Shaikh, or spiritual preceptor, for it is the Shaikh of him that hath no Shaikh. And just as the function of Shaikh in spiritual life is to lead upward by teaching the use of the Divine Names, so the author of the Dalail-ul-Khairat has devised his method of advancement, that is to say from the eighth to the fourth and so on, in successive stages of proclaiming the Names.

The eighth corresponds to the first Name [Allah, 'Allah'] in [the declaration of the Divine Unity, Surah 2, verse 256] Allah la ilah illa hu, 'Allah! There is no Allah but He';

the fourth is the stage of the second Name ilah, 'Allah';

the third is the stage of the third Name, hu. 'He';

the half is the stage of immersion in the Sea of the Oneness of the Divine Essence;

and the whole is the stage of immersion in the source of the Oneness of the Divine Essence. Such is the teaching of the lords of the Shadhili Order (Allah make us their worthy followers. (Amen).

How to maintain its continuity? When thou knowest this and desirest to recite from the Dalail-ul-Khairat continuously, begin first with the prayer given above, then repeat the [prescribed] Surahs, then the Beautiful Names

(in accordance with that which He, be He extolled, has said: 'And Allah hath the most Beautiful Names. Therefore invoke Him thereby) then the Names of the Prophet (Allah bless him and save him) and lastly, recite the Prayer for him [the Dalail-ul-Khairat] either eighth, or the fourth, or the third, or the half or the whole, according to thy degree.

If thou hast completed the Dalail-ul-Khairat in a week, with the preliminary prayer, and hast begun it [again] on the day of completion, thou art as one who has completed the Quran and the Dalail-ul-Khairat in a week;

if thou hast completed it in four days and hast begun it [again on the day of completion], thou art as one who has completed the Quran and the Dalail-ul-Khairat, having begun them twice in a week;

and if thou hast completed it in three days and hast begun it [again on the day of completion] thou art as one who has completed the Quran and the Dalail-ul-Khairat in three days.

Requisite of continuity It is requisite that the reciter should repeat the beginning [again] on the day of completion, in order to obtain the merit of having finished and begun [again], just as he that recites from the Quran, after finishing it, reads the beginning of the Khatmah [i.e. Surah I and the beginning of Surah] as far as 'shall prosper', for the same reason.

When we said above 'as one who has completed the Quran and the Dalail-ul-Khairat & c; we meant that he has repeated the Samadiyyah [i.e. Surah 112] three times, and has begun the Khatmah with the Fatihah and the beginning of Al-Baqarah [i.e. Surah 2] as far as 'shall prosper', and has recited the whole of the Dalail-ul-Khairat.

The reward of this thou shalt give for his honour (Allah bless him and save him); then for the rest of his brethren, the Prophets and Apostles; then for the People of his House and his honoured Companions; then for their inheritors, the learned divines who 'practice' and especially for the author of the Dalail-ul-Khairat, who is the cause of this manifest good; then for the Muslims who are dead and passed away, especially the Shaikhs, and for those also who are living and those that beget. And do thou ask Allah (be He extolled) for what thou desirest in this world and the hereafter.

How to conclude? Then conclude with that which He has said (be He extolled): 'Praise be unto Thy Lord, the Lord who is far Exalted above what they affirm. And peace be upon the Apostles' [Surah 37, ver. 180], and 'Praise be to Allah, Lord of the Worlds' [Surah 1, ver1].

Attaining of salvation; Do thus and thou shalt attain to salvation with those that are saved. And Allah shall take charge of our guidance, all of us, and shall give us strength for that wherein is His pleasure, and shall make us of those whose happiness is all surpassing, for the honour of him in whose service we seek His pleasure.

O Allah bless him and save him, and his Family, and his Companions, the noblest of peoples.

APPENDIX-V DALAIL-UL-KHAIRAT A TREASURE OF DIVINE LOVE

What is Love? Love is the most important word in the English language and the most confusing. Both secular and religious thinkers agree that love plays the central role in life and we are told that love is many splendid things and that “love makes the world go around.” Thousands of books, magazines, novels and songs are daily printed on the theme of love and its exposition.

Rules, nomenclatures, the mode of analysis by which we seek to explain the meaning of love are generally inadequate; something always seems to escape. This is because language is a matter of nuance and shadings, of emphases so subtle, of effects so elusive, that no device for description or notation can do justice to the task.

Its need - Psychologists have concluded that the need to feel love is a primary human emotional need. For love we climb mountains, cross seas, traverse deserts, journey distant lands and endure untold hardships. Without love mountains would become un-climbable, seas uncross-able, deserts unbearable, lands un-approachable and victories over plights unassailable.

Keeping the emotional love tank full is as important to a human being as maintaining proper oil level is to an automobile. Running your life on an empty love tank may cost you even more than trying to drive your car without oil; confident with storage of love you will surely enjoy a smooth and nice drive here and in the World hereafter.

You know how a good mint cleanses deposits and refreshes your mouth. Obeying the command of Allah and showering blessing upon the holy Prophet contains a special cleansing agent that locks away dirty deposits, mundane desires, worldly impurities and lusty designs. The heart in this way is not just protected from worldly desires and impurities but gets revitalized, rejuvenated and refreshed. Emancipation of the soul from earthly entanglements and freedom from worldly dogmas and irrational creeds gives you a new and fascinating vision of life.

Functions of Dalail-ul-Khairat - Reciting of Dalail-ul-Khairat brings a whole world of wonderful enjoyment to you every day. Its reading is like a promissory note surely to be honored on the Day of Judgment. Its perusal is like a bank draft en-cashable promptly on the Day of Resurrection. It is just like a passport for easy access to the enclosure of Paradise. It is an instrument for cultivation of divine love for Allah and the holy Prophet. Its daily recitation develops a growing sense of uniquely valuable and rare possession of treasure of divine love. It is the breath and finer spirit of divine love: the book being a book of rare excellence. In a nutshell passionate love of perfection is its point, love its language and emotions its currency.

When you get disgusted with suffocating circumstances of life, the devotional recitation of Dalail-ul-Khairat provides you with a means to escape from the world of logic, science and technology and admits you into the enchanting and beautiful world of ecstatic and perennial joy. In a state of dejection there is a lyrical cry on your lips;

O lift me from the grass!

I die! I faint! I fail

It is in such failing moments of piercing anxiety that the recitation of the Dalail-ul-khairat certainly lifts up the soul gently to soaring spiritual heights. When in the words of Keats "the weariness, the fever, the fret" of painful realities of life make your world cheerless and gloomy, the wonderful book throws upon your soul a glowing splendour of satisfaction taking away your tension and anxieties.

Spite of despondence, of the inhuman dearth

Of noble natures, of the gloomy days,

Of all the unhealthy and o'er-darkened ways

Made for our searching: yes, in spite of all,

Some shape of beauty moves away the pall

From our dark spirits,

Keats

The whole book is a store house and a repository of splendid variety of Salawat and Salam upon the holy Prophet. The cheering, everlasting and an ennobling influence of every Salat and every Salam is like a bough which is weighed down with a fruit to the breaking point. As a result the reader enjoys a perpetual state of ecstatic enlightenment.

Functions of Windows and Dalail-ul-Khairat are alike -

Windows are essential to our well being. They connect us with Nature and neighbours. They welcome the light that wakes us up in the morning and direct it to sweep through our rooms until dusk. They allow us to feel sheltered but not confined. They capture the sun's warmth and add architectural touch and beauty to our houses. They draw our gazes away from daily tasks and invite our imagination to wander to faraway lands. Windows do that which foundation and roofs cannot do. They invite the world into our houses and nourish our sources. This transforming quality of windows is also found in Dalail-ul-Khairat. By remembrance of the holy Prophet through showering blessing and peace upon him, a vision is developed like that of a window. The vistas of lush green valleys blossomed with beauty of paradise embrace your vision. The dreams are turned into reality; head and heart enjoy clarity and complete satisfaction. The window of love once opened never gets closed; exploring of the unseen becomes the goal of the searching soul.

The holy Prophet is acme of all prophets. He, therefore, is the epitome of all prophesy and prophethood. According to the holy Quran, Allah is the First and the Last; for we the Muslims, the holy Prophet is necessarily the door and the window as explained above leading to Allah one way or the other and so he is the second first and the second last.

Its Language - The language employed in Dalail-ul-Khairat is singularly eloquent. Due to sheer respect for Allah and the holy Prophet it is carefully fabricated texture of chosen words punctuated with figurative and fanciful phrases. There is alliteration and repetition of phraseology. But it is repetition with variation employed as music. Its purpose is to generate genuine development of a progression in sound which, in its growing complexity and richness, matches the parallel progression of imagery. Through skillful use of jeweled phrases and alliteration the author achieves a high water mark of prose artistry. The style is lucid and the whole scheme touches the soul gently.

Division of Dalail-ul-Khairat in Parts - You are well aware that Dalail-ul-Khairat consists of eight chapters. Its two chapters i.e. the first and eighth are read on Monday. Hence the book is spread over seven days of the week. Thus there are seven lush green valleys of divine love with passing clouds over the sky and fragrant roses under the feet. Each valley is a picture of mystic beauty from every angle. These wonderful valleys are punctuated with seven resting places to ruminate and enjoy the thoughtful vision of Allah and His holy Prophet. Then again you enter the next valley afresh the next day and breathe the pure, yet purified, air and enjoy the tranquility of heart and soul in the lap of kind Nature. Dalail-ul-Khairat is a wonderful collection of prayers and peace upon the holy Prophet. The whole book is read in seven days with recycling throughout the life.

Feelings while reciting - While reading it from page to page and while the willow trails its delicate amber, you feel as if you are sailing in a barge down in a placid stream flowing through the Garden of Paradise overgrown with lovely and scented flowers of various hues and colors.

And such are daffodils

With the green world they live in; and clear rills

That for themselves a cooling covert make

Gainst the hot season; the mid-forest brake,

Rich with a sprinkling of fair musk-rose blooms:

Keats

It is a book of haunting beauty and full of spiritual attainments. The message of love for the holy Prophet makes the heart leap as the readers recites it. It is wrapped in inspiration to rediscover the essential truth of love for the holy Prophet. It is beyond the framework of time and space. It certainly embraces the boundaries of eternity as it will continue to be read in all times and in all ages on daily basis throughout the world till the Day of Judgment.

An endless fountain of immortal drink,
Pouring unto us from the heaven's brink.

It breathes the very spirit of purity. It is a break in the routine life to bring more sunshine of happiness. An era of beauty and benediction through the efficacy of love makes your arrival easy at the main spring of life. Then you and the rich perfumed summer ever go hand in hand on the high road of tranquility.

In other words it is the text book of lovers which is read on daily basis throughout their lives. The holy Prophet is the life of life, the love of hearts and the light of our lives and recitation of Dalail-ul-Khairat helps in attainment of these spiritual enlightenment. It serves as a spring board to dive into the ocean of love for Allah and His beloved prophet. The book is fresh fascinating and timeless. Here you will feel the arrival of spring bursting with summer wild flowers and there is abundance of spiritual heights for novices and purists alike. It is completely captivating as it lifts the soul very gently and prompts the reader to say;

A thing of beauty is a joy for ever:
Its loveliness increase; it will never pass into nothingness;

And ultimately the stage would come when its reader realizes that the entire book, loaded with a whole spiritual crystallization, is primarily wrapped in beauty and truth of Allah and His beloved Prophet (blessing and peace be upon him) and when the reader obtaining the comfort of great finality concludes,

That is all
Ye know on earth and all ye need to know.

APPENDIX-VI

POPULARITY OF DALAIL-UL-KHAIRAT IN CENTRAL ASIA AND OTTOMAN EMPIRE

Dalail-ul-Khairat is recited by lovers of Allah and his Holy Prophet on daily basis throughout the world. It was so popular in Central Asia that Dalail Khanas or Salawat-Khanas were founded to learn it by heart. Mr. Fritz Meier Professor of Islamic Studies, University of Basal in chapter 4 of the Mystic Path has written as under:-

“The means of affecting such contact included repeating as often as possible the benediction to the Prophet (as-salam-ala-n-nabi) recommended in Surah xxxiii., 56 and in the Sayings of Muhammad, which grew to become a ritual similar to the remembrance of God. The basic formula, ‘God bless our Prophet and lend him salvation’, could be varied and expanded in numerous ways, was often spoken in litanies and repeated a specified or unspecified number of times with the purpose of focusing the attention as exclusively upon the Prophet as upon God in the other ritual. A famous collection of such formulas, much read and recited, was the Dalail-ul-Khairat of the Berber Al-Jazuli’s (1x/15th century).In 897/1492, his younger contemporary, ash-Shuni, inaugurated, in Cairo, a weekly session for collective recital of such prayer formulas, lasting through Thursday night till Friday, called mahya, vigil.” At a later date, in Central Asia, al-Jazuli’s breviary was learned by heart in Dalail Khanas or Salawat-Khanas founded specially for the purpose. Another method of concentrating thoughts and feelings upon the Prophet was reading hymns in his praise. The Burda of Al-Busiri (viii/13th century was particularly popular among such hymns.”

But it was also possible to sense the Prophet close within oneself by pondering his holy words, and by making the pilgrimage. Some pilgrims to the shrine believed that they heard the Prophet’s reply to their greetings. But the mystic’s ultimate longing was for union (Ijtima) with the Prophet, for the sight of the Prophet, not only in dreams, not only after death, but awake and in life.”

It would be interesting for the reader to know that Sultan Abdul Hameed who was the last Khalifa of the Ottoman Empire, never ascended his throne to attend to court until he had recited his Naqshbandi exercises and read a portion of the Quran and also of the prayer book Dalail-ul-Khairat, as well as praying the two sets of supererogatory prayer of the early morning.

APPENDIX-VII

WHAT MOTIVATED THE AUTHOR TO COMPILE DALAIL-UL-KHAIRAT?

He was the grandson of Hazrat Hasan, who came from the family of Prophet Muhammad (PBUH). He belonged to the Tareeqat of Shazeli. He was a very learned person and an author of the book, "Dalail-ul-Khairat". Many miraculous things are attributed to him. He died in the Tunisian city of Soos in 870 Hijri. It is said that when his last remains were being transferred from Soos to the city of Marrakesh of Morocco, 88 years after his death, he still looked fresh and in a perfect condition. Before he took his last breath, he had shaved his beard. When he was being reburied, his face looked freshly shaven. His book is also known as "Salaato Salaam". It is also said that a very good smell spread from the grave of Al – Jazuli.

There were several reasons for Suleiman Al – Jazuli's writing the book, "Dalail-ul-Khairat". Here is one of them.

Al – Juzali was to offer namaz. He went to a well to take ablution. But there was nothing to take out water from the well. A small girl was watching him from a raised ground. She asked him, who he was. Al – Jazuli introduced himself.

The girl wondered that he was a respectable person, yet he had failed to take water out from the well. Later she spit in the well. And immediately afterwards water rose from the well and overflowed. Jazuli took ablution and turned to the girl and asked her.

"For God's sake, where have you got this super natural power from"?

The girl replied that she had attained the exalted position by offering too many "salaats and salaams" to Hazrat Muhammad (PBUH), who took extra care for the animals in the desert.

Upon this Sheikh Jazuli vowed to write a book on "salaat and salaam". He compiled all the salaats and salaams in this book. It was called "Dala'ilul Khairaat". (Yusuf bin Ismail An-Nabhani, "Jami 'u Karamat-l Awliya" Vo. L, p. 170).

Another reason is this:

One night, Hazrat Jazuli found that his wife had disappeared from the bed. After she returned home, Jazuli asked her where she had gone. She said, she had gone to Medina to visit the Prophet.

Jazuli asked her what was the spiritual level, which made this visit to Medina possible. His wife replied that she read "salwats". Jazuli asked her to teach him that "salwat" But she said, she could not do it. But in this way she showed him a way out. She said, "you can collect and compile all the know salwats and I can point out that the said salwat was there or not".

Upon this, Jazuli compiled all the salwats read in the Muslim world and presented this book to his wife. His wife said after reading the book that the said salwat was in some places in the book.

APPENDIX-VIII

AUTHOR'S LAND AND COUNTRY

Introduction to Morocco History: - Morocco's history is full of abrupt changes. Carthage implanted trading colonies; Rome swept westward to the Pillars of Hercules; Rome declined and Morocco felt the heels of Vandals pouring westwards. Byzantine emperors and then Turkish Sultans won control of its neighbours but never conquered the Moors.

Morocco is a nation with a long and distinguished history. The Berber tribes of the Riff Mountains have occupied the same land since the Neolithic revolution. Tangier is older than the eternal city of Rome and, when Oxford was a muddy unlettered village; Aristotle was being translated in the court of the Sultans. Though the British monarchy is considered long established it cannot compete with the ruling Alouite dynasty of Morocco who are descendants of the Prophet Muhammad. blessing and peace be upon him Moroccan history, whatever its antiquity, is essentially the tale of a conservative society. Four great mountain ranges run across the breadth of the land, breaking up the geographical unity of the area and providing a secure refuge for the indigenous Berber people against any central power. Beyond the difficulties of a nation broken into regions by mountain ranges is the position of Morocco itself, isolated on the north western corner of Africa by the Sahara desert and the Atlantic Ocean.

Through this geographical barrier three great revolutionary changes have intruded to transform Moroccan society.

The first great change was from 1,000 BC when Phoenician traders brought achievements of settled agriculture and urban civilization to Morocco.

The second revolution was religious. The year 682 CE marked a crucial milestone in the history of the Moroccan nation, for it was in this year that Uqba Ben Nafi and his army of Muslim Arabs launched a lightning raid into Morocco. Looking westward he reached the Atlantic and riding the horse into the Ocean until the water was up to its neck, and then, runs the legend, raising his voice to the sky called Allah to witness that his realm now extended "to the end of the earth" and further said,

“O Allah I take You witness that there is no ford here, if there were, I would cross.”

The epic scene where the Arab leader is seen spurring his horse into the Atlantic Ocean is still well known to Moroccan school children. Arab armies conquered the entire North African seaboard and brought Islam to Morocco in the eighth century. Arab military rule lasted only a few decades but the spiritual and social message took deep root.

The next invader, a generation later, looked northwards across the Straits of Europe. As Hannibal had done before him, he invaded Spain, with the support of Berber troops, under a Berber general named Tariq, giving his name to the rock Jabel Tariq, which he captured and which we now know as Gibraltar. All subsequent rulers of Morocco were only legitimate for as long as they championed Islam, either as reformers or as military protectors.

The third great revolution was in the twentieth century when the French, albeit for the selfish motives of a colonial power, implanted the industrial evolution in Morocco. The wheel of industrial revolution is still incomplete.

The central and most consistent influence on Moroccan history is Islam. Idriss, the great grandson of the Prophet, was the first to establish a Muslim kingdom. This achievement was overshadowed by the Almoravides, a reform movement from the Sahara, which under the leadership of Yousaf ben Tashfen created an Islamic Empire. After the fall of Cordova and Toledo, the king of Seville called in the strong army of these Moroccan Berbers to his rescue. The strong army was of that Yousaf ben Tashfen, who thus brought glory to his dynasty and beauty to the cities of Morocco as of Spain and his Islamic Empire stretched from the Pyrenees to the river Niger.

The Almoravides were supplanted in the mid eleventh century by the Almohads, and even more militant reform movement founded in the High Atlas by the theologian Ibn Tumert. Abdel Moumen, his chosen successor, established an equally extensive Empire which reached east to modern Libya.

By the mid 13th century the Merenids had replaced the Almohads as rulers of Morocco. They championed no religious revival but proved themselves worthy by fighting Spanish Christians and founding numerous religious colleges. The last two Merenid princes, however, were found wanting in zeal and were lynched for failing to defeat the Christians Portuguese invaders. Their heirs, the Wattasids, presided over a disintegrating and discredited state.

They were brushed aside by the Saadians who earned their legitimacy by leading the holy war against the Portuguese in the far south. Saadian rule attained its glory under Ahmad el Mansour, but glorious though his reign had been, his son lost all power when he sold two Moroccan ports to Christian Spain.

A half century of feuding by petty states led to the rule of the Alouite dynasty. The fifty year reign of Moulay Ishmael was the peak period of Alouite authority. Though few of his successors achieved a fraction of his power, none could be accused of lacking the Islamic virtues of militancy and orthodoxy.

Throughout the 19th century Morocco, despite the heroic attempts of a number of Sultans, fell increasingly under European influence. In 1912 France established a protectorate and delegated the extreme north and south to the administration of Spain.

A new society had been formed by the time Mohammed V led the struggle for Independence which was granted in 1956. Despite the great social and demographic transformation the role of Islam remains central to the national consciousness.

APPENDIX-IX A TALE OF TWO CITIES

FEZ – ‘Fez where all is Eden or a wilderness.’

Fez is the most complete Islamic medieval city in the world. Its history has for a thousand years been the history of Morocco's political, spiritual, commercial and intellectual life. It is now surpassed by the modern cities of Rabat and Casablanca, and to an extent by its own New Town built by the French after 1912 C.E. It was once known as the Athens of North Africa.

Much has perished in the long decline from the golden period of Fez under the Merenid Sultans in the 13th and 14th centuries. Chiefly the old ornate mosques, ancient tombs and Medersaes have survived, respected by each dynasty, every mutinous regiment and pillaging tribe.

Fez is situated on river fez – also known as the River of Pearls. It was founded in 789 by Moulay Idriss, a descendent of the holy Prophet. In less than one generation, it grew from a tiny Berber settlement into a distinctive Arab Town from which the Arabic language, religious scholarship and technical knowledge filtered out into the hinterlands to Arabs and Berbers alike. It is a well watered valley fringed by hills and it, therefore, is an area of olive trees, apricots, peaches, plums and grapes. It would be of interest to the reader to know that Ibn Battuta, who travelled 12500 KM in life, was born in Tangier in 1304 C.E. and died in Fez in 1377 C.E.

A century later the Idrissid dynasty had declined but the city they had established survived. It grew in wealth and remained the acknowledged religious and cultural centre of Morocco, though new administrative capitals were established at Marrakesh and then at Rabat. Its golden period of wealth, fame and prosperity was in the 13th and 14th centuries under the Merenid Sultans.

In 1889, the French decadent novelist Pierre Loti wrote of the medina in Fez, “O dark Maghreb, long may you remain immured and impenetrable to everything that is new; turn your back on Europe and immerse yourself in the things of the past.”

A century later UNESCO designated the medina a World Heritage Site and began a complete restoration of the old city. The Moroccan Govt. set up a body responsible for restoring around fifty of the most important buildings and a large number of smaller ones; the total cost of this huge project is estimated at 600 million U.S. dollars. Maalems the traditional craftsmen are restoring the original structures and decoration so that future generations will be able to use and enjoy the ancient medina.

The city of half a million is divided into three. Fez el Bali, Fez the old (ancient walled city), is the enigmatic and fiercely Muslim medina, a maze of reclusive quarters, fondouqs, medersas and mosques whose narrow streets remain inaccessible to cars. Fez el Jedid, New Fez, is the 13th century Imperial city to the west of the Medina which is still dominated by the royal palace. The French-built New Town is even further to the west, a separate entity with wide avenues and new developments which would be without interest but for its cafes, hotels, restaurants and convenience

The Mosque of Qaraouyine:- At the heart of Fez and Moroccan culture, it is perhaps appropriate that this Great Mosque should remain such an elusive building. Its outer walls are so encrusted with shops and houses that its shape is lost, whilst the four main gates, of the seventeen doors, offer intriguing but baffling vistas of a succession of pure white colonnades and the simple lush matting with its woven red design. It has 270 pillars and seventeen doors leading into the medina.

The Mosque was first built in 859 by Fatima bint Muhammad ben Feheri, a prosperous refugee from Kairouan. This was improved upon by a Fatamid Governor in 933 and further enlarged by a governor of the Omayyad Caliph of Cordoba, Abder Rehman III in 956. The Mosque was then almost entirely remade by the Almoravide Sultan Ali ben Youssef from 1135 to 1143 and finished only a few years before the dynasty fell. It is a rectangular space sufficient for 23,000 to say their prayers simultaneously. Leo Africanus observed that on 27 day Ramzan the great mosque was ablaze with 1700 oil lamps. This splendid mosque is connected with the celebrated present university which for centuries was the only center of higher learning in Morocco.

The Library and University of Qaraouyine:- The great library of the University is stored in the white walls between the Place and the Mihrab to which there is no entry. Considering the physical deprivation to the city the library has survived well. It boasts a 9th – century manuscript Quran and an original manuscript of Averres-Ibn Ruchid amongst its 30,000 precious treasure of rare manuscripts and volumes.

The University of Qaraouyine is the oldest institute of higher learning in the world. Its origin lies in the teaching of the Quran in the Mosque, just as Christian universities much later coalesced out of monastery and cathedral schools. Allied subjects like grammar, theology and Quranic law were taught in informal lectures with an accent on verbal memory rather than debate or written papers. It is claimed that Pope Sylvester III learnt mathematics at Fez a century before Bologna, the first European University, was established. In the 14th century 2000 students, “tolba”, dwelt in the various Medersas to be instructed by the ulemas, the doctors and professors. Ibn Ruchid, Ibn Khaldun, Leo Africanus and Ibn Battuta all participated in the intellectual milieu of Fez. In 1963 the university was ‘nationalized’, having been the single source of higher education until then. Departments were dispersed to the new town and dependent faculties established at Rabat Tetouan and Marrakesh. The religious elite of Morocco maintain that this oldest seat of learning has always produced the world’s finest teachers of Arabic and of the holy Quran.

Medersa es Seffarine: - Leaving the Place from the bottom left walk towards the Oued Fes for the inconspicuous door of the Medersa es Seffarine. You may need a guide to find it and to negotiate with the neighbours to open the front and roof doors. It was established by Sultan Abou Yusuf, the founder of Fez el Jedid, in 1280. It was the first medersa in Morocco and it follows the design of a Fassi house, following the practice of professors lecturing in their home when not using the mosque. Formal medersas had long been established in Egypt, Syria and Iraq but with the additional gift of a library the Sultan showed that he was more interested in education than architectural elegance. The arched balcony, extensive vine and ablutions pool have a simple domestic elegance but the prayer hall shows signs of the extravagance that would be unleashed in the Attarin medersa twenty – five years later. You can hardly ever tire of Medina views and the medersa roof has an intriguing prospect over the river mills, houses and bridges. Dalail-ul-Khairat was written by Al Jazuli in one of the rooms of this ancient Medersa and the room is still pointed out to visitors.

Marrakech, the fascinating, walled, oasis city of Morocco in the foothills of the western end of the Grand Atlas, was twice the capital of the country. During the Middle Ages, it was one of the great cities of Islam, and a prospering commercial center. Today, this famed gateway city to the Sahara is still alive with color and confusion in the souks, in the bustling Djemma-el-fna Square, in the narrow streets and in the magnificent Saadian tombs.

Marrakech (also spelled Marrakesh) dates back to 1062 when, as the encampment of Youssef Ibn -Tashfen, it marked the founding of the African capital of the Almoravides dynasty. The city was captured in 1147 by the Almohads, a Berber Muslim sect who ruled Spain and Morocco in the 12th and 13th centuries. Marrakech was the capital of Morocco until 1259, and again from 1550 until 1660. It was founded as a modern European town in 1913.

The city still evokes thoughts of mystery and espionage, and of desert caravans (it was, in fact, once a starting point for slave caravans to the Sahara and Timbuktu). It draws thousands of tourists who are fascinated by the fabulous 12th – century gardens and beautiful marble palaces, and, mostly, by the minaret which has dominated the landscape since its completion in 1190. It is strikingly African compared with the Atlantic character of Casablanca and the intense Arab attitude of Fez: yet it is not some desert border town but a city with a long and proud record as an imperial Capital.

The city also known as city of roses is one of the jewels in the Country's crown. Sprawled across the plain and surrounded by green palm groves, it is like a red peak nestling beneath the snow capped heads of the Atlas Mountains.

Es – Sebti – the Seven Saints of Marrakesh: - Even today week-long Moussem of the Es Sebti is celebrated. It begins at the Shrine of Sidi Iyad, moved on to Sidi Youssef bin Ali, Sidi Abdel - Aziz, Sidi el – Ghawzani, Sidi es Suhayi and Sidi ben Sliman before culminating here at the major Shrine of the city, that of Sidi bel Abbas.

The Zaouia of Sidi ben Sliman el-Jazouli: - Turning back through Baba Teghzout (northern edge of the city), a right turn takes you past the covered Souk el Medina and out below the Zaouia of Sidi ben Sliman el-Jazouli, another of the seven saints of Marrakesh. Its distinctive green pyramid roof and neighbouring mosque can be seen from alleys to the north and south of the Zaouia, but Sidi ben Sliman el-Jazouli was one of the greatest mystics of Morocco, whose followers went from town to town found important religious institutions throughout the country. El-Jazouli's Book on the Manifest Proof of Piety remains a seminal mystical text; the popularity of Dalail-ul-khairat however remains unmatched.

His learning, moral sermons, miracles and ascetic life style gained him a popular following. Apart from his spiritual teaching, he was a leading figure in the struggle against Portugal and his embalmed body became a powerful totem in the Jihad.

Buried in Afugal in Haha province for a few decades, his body was brought to Marrakesh by the Saadians in 1523 C.E. Six Saadian princes were murdered soon afterwards in a palace coup. They were buried together under a single kaubba beside el-Jazuli's Shrine, giving a further bizarre resonance to the legend of the seven.
